

SUMMER READING

As Second Grade comes to a close, we want to stress the importance of summer reading. As Charlotte Mason says, “It is in the lap of the parent that a child first explores the universe of the printed page. Children of all ages must be immersed in the world of literature.” -When Children Love to Learn

Today, parents and children have a multitude of enticements competing for their attention. All too often, children plead for access to the digital market with its adrenal boosting sights and sounds. The challenge is guiding children to recognizing the life-giving beauty of a story. In order to cultivate character, build background knowledge, and nurture a love of reading, we must spend time in rich literature. Reading to and with your child, and listening to them read a book to you, creates the perfect pathway to enter the world of living books.

Consider what you wish to instill in your child this summer. What habits of the good life do you wish to practice? What habits of thinking and acting will influence a summer of wonder? What ideas will be cultivated through the books they read? How will you build a desire to escape into a book and relish its mysteries and surprises?

Our choices change who we are and how we live. How we spend our time influences our character. Open the books, read beyond just this list, and let us give to our children one of the best gifts they could receive—time spent with you, cultivating a life-long love of reading.

Rising 3rd Graders: Summer Reading List

Please have your child read widely and often both with you and independently! Please choose a minimum of two fiction books from the following list so your incoming third grader will be prepared for the class activities in August. The non-fiction books are optional and only the beginning of what you can read with your child to explore the wide-world and build background knowledge.

Fiction:

My Fathers Dragon by Ruth Stiles Gannett
Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane Kate DeCamillo
World According to Humphrey by Betty Birney
The Long Winter by Laura Ingalls Wilder
Henry and Ribsy by Beverly Cleary

Non-Fiction:

Any Early Readers or picture books related to:
animals & habitats, weather, hearing and seeing,
life cycles, Rome, Vikings, Thirteen Colonies

“As you read my stories of long ago, I hope you will remember that things truly worthwhile and that which will give you happiness are the same now as they were then. It is not the things you have that make you happy. It is love and kindness, and the memories you share.”

— Laura Ingalls Wilder
