

SUMMER READING

As Fifth Grade comes to a close, we cannot stress enough the importance of summer reading. As Charlotte Mason says, “It is in the lap of the parent that a child first explores the universe of the printed page. Children of all ages must be immersed in the world of literature.” -When Children Love to Learn

Today, parents and children have a multitude of enticements competing for their attention. All too often, children plead for access to the digital market with its adrenal boosting sights and sounds. The challenge is guiding children to recognizing the life-giving beauty of a story. In order to cultivate character, build background knowledge, and nurture a love of reading, we must spend time in rich literature. Reading to and with your child, and listening to them read a book to you, creates the perfect pathway to enter the world of living books.

Consider what you wish to instill in your child this summer. What habits of the good life do you wish to practice? What habits of thinking and acting will influence a summer of wonder? What ideas will be cultivated through the books they read? How will you build a desire to escape into a book and relish its mysteries and surprises?

Our choices change who we are and how we live. How we spend our time influences our character. Open the books, read beyond just this list, and let us give to our children one of the best gifts they could receive—time spent with you, cultivating a life-long love of reading.

Rising 6th Graders: Summer Reading List

Please have your child read widely and often both with you and independently! Please read a minimum of two fiction books from the following list so your incoming 6th grader will be prepared for the class activities in August. The non-fiction books are optional and only the beginning of what you can read.

Fiction: (Choose a minimum of two) Tuck Everlasting by Natalie Babbitt Call it Courage by Armstrong Sperry The Cay by Theodore Taylor Mossflower by Brian Jacques (or other in series) Anne of Green Gables by LM Montgomery City of Ember by Jeanne Duprau	Non-Fiction: Rocks & minerals, earth’s structure, plate tectonics, earthquakes, volcanoes, Earth’s atmosphere, the Solar System, Ancient Greece, Ancient Rome, industrialization
